THE ISLAND

A New Island in the Lhaviyani Atoll

Meyyafushi is a natural island in Lhaviyani Atoll — Faadhippolhu — in the northern Maldives, and the resort has the whole of it: one island, one resort, nothing else on the land. A house reef rings the shore, reached from the beach and the villa ladders, and the lagoon falls away on every side.

The resort is brand new. It welcomed its first guests on 1 November 2025 and completed its island-wide opening in July 2026, when Raa, the overwater wine cellar, opened as the last of its ten restaurants and bars. It is run by the BeKind Hospitality Group, the team behind Fushifaru Maldives, as a five-star premium all-inclusive resort.

THE STAY

Beach Villas & Water Villas

The 95 villas and suites come in twelve categories, from 185 to 950 square metres, and every one has a king bed and its own private plunge pool. The beach categories face the sand; the semi-ocean and water categories stand over the lagoon on the island's western arc.

At the top sits the Meyya Residence — a four-bedroom presidential residence of 950 square metres sleeping eight adults, with its own lap pool and a slide into the lagoon. Two and three-bedroom suites take families and groups of up to six adults, and the water villas with slides are the island's signature family stay.

ISLAND LIFE

The Reef, the Table & the Court

THE TABLE

Ten restaurants and bars include Bubble, the underwater restaurant, Sukun's teppanyaki counter and Raa, the overwater wine cellar. Fili serves the all-day buffet, Hatharu Dhan is open 24 hours, and the Sky Lounge pairs a glass-bottom infinity pool with the sunset.

THE WATER

The dive centre is PADI-certified and dives with a resident marine biologist. The house reef is the daily snorkel; beyond it run dolphin and sunset cruises, fishing trips and the full range of motorised and non-motorised watersports.

THE ISLAND

Veyoge Spa sits over the water with hydrotherapy, steam and sauna, and the gym is open 24 hours. On land: the world's first fixed overwater padel court, tennis, a recreation centre with mini-bowling, a skate ramp and a climbing wall, and Kokko Kids Club.

SUSTAINABILITY

Kindness as a House Rule

Meyyafushi is run by the BeKind Hospitality Group, whose name is its programme: kindness to guests, to the team — many of them from Lhaviyani Atoll itself — to the local community and to the environment, practised as a daily habit rather than a slogan.

On the reef, the resort's coral rejuvenation garden is tended with the resident marine biologist, and the cultural programme — boduberu drumming, Thaana writing, palm weaving — keeps Maldivian craft at the centre of the island's week. Even the bedding is chosen on sustainable grounds.

GETTING THERE

Thirty-Five Minutes from Malé

1 FLY TO MALÉ

Velana International Airport

Every journey starts at Malé's international airport, the Maldives' gateway to the world. The resort's team meets arriving guests there, assists with check-in, and looks after the onward transfer — you are looked after from the arrivals hall to the island.

2 THE SEAPLANE TERMINAL

Five minutes by shuttle

A five-minute shuttle runs from the international terminal to the Manta Air seaplane terminal, where the resort's VIP lounge waits with refreshments, Wi-Fi and showers while the flight is prepared.

3 THE SEAPLANE

35 minutes over the atolls

The classic Maldivian arrival: a 35-minute flight north over the atoll chain to Lhaviyani, landing on the lagoon beside the island — 145 kilometres that are half the point of the journey.

4 ARRIVING

Met on the platform

The team meets the flight on the floating platform and brings guests ashore, where a Resident Host — on call 24 hours a day for the whole stay — takes over. Departures are arranged the evening before, with a host at the airport until the international gate.

CLIMATE

The Dry Season Runs December to April

DEC – FEB	Highs 86–88°F (30–31°C)	Lows 77–79°F (25–26°C)	Sea 84°F (29°C)	The north-east monsoon — the driest weeks

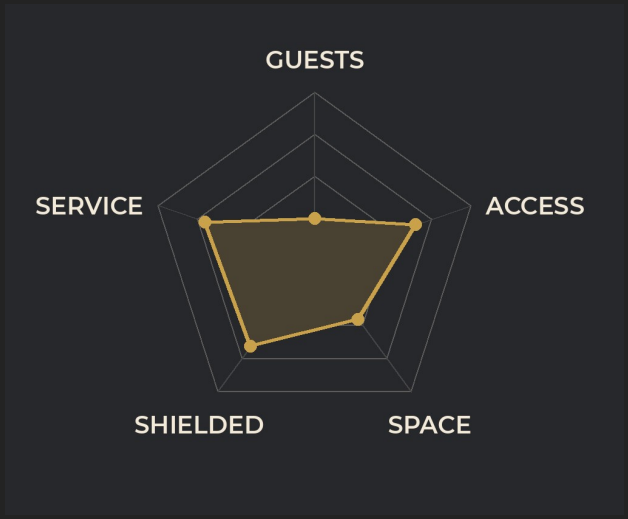
THE PRIVACY INDEX

A Villa Among 95

54 SECLUDED, SHARED ISLAND

RESORT STAY · PRIVACY INDEX / 100

A full-scale resort island — 95 villas, ten restaurants and a seaplane pontoon — shared with everyone else staying there; the seclusion is in the setting, a natural island in an empty stretch of atoll, not in the headcount.



Solid gold — resort stay.

RESORT STAY

WHO ELSE IS THERE — 5 / 20

One villa among 95 — at full house several hundred other guests share the island across ten restaurants and bars, the main pool and the kids' club. Only your own villa, pool and deck are exclusively yours.

WHO CAN GET IN — 13 / 20

A natural island reached only by the resort's own seaplane transfers — no public ferry, no marina, no day visitors, every arrival met and escorted. Against that, the pontoon of a 95-villa resort is busy through the day.

SPACE TO DISAPPEAR — 9 / 20

A 7.3-hectare island, about a kilometre long, shared by several hundred guests plus a large resident staff. The beaches run all round it, but the restaurants, pool and bars are everyone's, all day.

OUT OF SIGHT, SOUND & TRAFFIC — 13 / 20

A standalone natural island with open horizon and no neighbouring resort in sight. Inside, the screening is garden-level: beach villas sit behind vegetation; the water villas stand in two long rows in sight of each other.

INVISIBLE SERVICE — 14 / 20

A full five-star resort machine — a 24-hour Resident Host, daily housekeeping, minibar replenishment, a large restaurant, spa and dive team. Professional and warm, but present everywhere rather than invisible.
