REGION — PANAMA

Panama gives foreign buyers equal property rights and direct titled ownership — a sharp contrast with the untitled right-of-possession land found elsewhere in its archipelagos. In the Pearl Islands, reached by daily ferry from the capital, that titled certainty backs some of the Pacific's largest island estates.

THE ESTATE

Three Parcels, One Great Estate

Corona del Rey is offered as three freehold parcels, each fully registered and unencumbered: a secluded 133-hectare interior lot; a 297-hectare oceanfront parcel with a year-round freshwater river along its western boundary; and a 275-hectare oceanfront parcel holding a small freshwater lake in its southeast corner and a river of its own.

LAND, WATER & ACCESS

Rainforest Hills, White Sand

The ground runs from gently rolling, rainforest-covered hills to two dramatic peninsulas and the beaches the listing calls the finest on Isla del Rey. Offshore, tuna, sailfish and snapper feed rich sport-fishing water. Access is by daily ferry from Panama City, commercial flights to nearby islands, and the private airstrip at Punta Coco.
