REGION — GREECE

The Saronic Gulf scatters its islands between Athens and the Peloponnese — close to the capital, yet a world apart. The Diapori group lies off Corinthia, where freehold islets seldom reach the open market and undeveloped ones, this close to Athens, rarer still.

THE ISLAND

The Third of the Trio

Tragonisi is the third member of the Diapori trio, a bright, sun-drenched island smaller than its neighbours St. John and St. Thomas. The ground is open and gentle — slopes that take in the whole group and the Peloponnese mountains beyond — and, unlike many Saronic islets, it has a sandy beach, a soft landing for boats and swimmers.

ACCESS

Fifteen Minutes from Korfos

The harbour village of Korfos lies seven miles west — a 15-minute boat ride — with Athens 45 minutes by boat beyond it. Korfos and Megara, 30 minutes from the mainland launch point, supply the tavernas, shops and maritime infrastructure an island project needs.
