REGION — BRAZIL

Angra dos Reis spreads across a sheltered bay on Brazil's Costa Verde, between Rio de Janeiro and São Paulo — hundreds of islands scattered along a forested mainland shore. It is the country's classic yachting coast, where freehold island estates of this scale almost never change hands.

THE LEGACY

A Sanctuary, Sculpted

Conceived and developed over several decades by Professor Ivo Pitanguy — recognised worldwide as one of the most influential surgeons of his era — the island was shaped as a private sanctuary, where an eye for form was turned to land, forest and shore, and aesthetic sensitivity meets a profound respect for nature.

THE LAND

Forest, Springs & Shore

Thirty hectares of Atlantic Forest carry an extensive trail network to high vantage points over the Angra archipelago. The island is self-sufficient in water, with more than five natural freshwater springs scattered across its ground.

THE BUNGALOWS

Nine Suites, Set Quietly

A total of 1,391 square metres of built space holds nine suites distributed among a collection of Mediterranean-style bungalows. The structures are designed to blend seamlessly into the landscape, ensuring the human footprint remains secondary to the island's natural grandeur.

ISLAND LIFE

Silence, by Design

Movement around the estate runs on a sophisticated internal transport system of electric carts, preserving the silence and air quality of the sanctuary. Offshore, the deep-water pier takes large yachts and luxury vessels — the island's front door to the bay.

LAND AND WATER

Three Beaches, One Forest

The geography gives absolute seclusion and varied coastal experiences: three fully private white-sand beaches with calm, crystal-clear water for swimming and water sports, a deep-water pier engineered for large yachts, and forest trails climbing to panoramic views across the Angra archipelago.

KNOWN FOR

Legacy — the island Professor Ivo Pitanguy spent decades shaping, with its own 400-metre airstrip in the bay of Angra dos Reis.

DAYTIME HIGH ±80°F · NIGHT LOW ±68°F

BY AIR

Its Own Airstrip

The island's own 400-metre private airstrip takes direct arrivals by light aircraft or helicopter. The listing puts Rio de Janeiro roughly 20 to 30 minutes away by air — about 73 miles in a straight line — with São Paulo beyond.

BY WATER

Deep Water Alongside

A deep-water pier engineered for large yachts and luxury vessels makes the island a natural yacht base. Angra dos Reis lies just 3.7 miles across the bay, its luxury marinas and gourmet dining a short boat ride from the island's shore.
