THE ISLAND

A Motu in the Middle of the Pass

Motu Fara is a private motu of 16,000 m² — about four acres — set mid-channel in Avatoru Pass, on the northern rim of Rangiroa in the Tuamotu Archipelago. Two villas stand in the palms, Villa Fara Nui and Villa Fara Iti, sleeping fourteen between them; the island's own line for itself is “Where Privacy meets Paradise.”

It is run as a serviced retreat, not a self-catering rental: stays are built on the All Inclusive package — full board, every boat crossing, one activity a day — and a small resident team looks after the motu.

STAY

Two Villas, One Island

Villa Fara Nui, the larger house, sleeps up to eight. Its living room — 100 m², with a sofa and table football — opens towards the deck and the 8 × 3 m pool; the relaxation room carries a 75-inch TV with Netflix, and a separate parental unit keeps its own view of pool and pass.

THE VILLAS

Villa Fara Nui	up to 8 guests · pool 8 × 3 m
Villa Fara Iti	4 guests + 2 children · pool 7 × 3 m
Whole Island	both villas · up to 14 guests

Villa Fara Iti sleeps four, plus two children in the mezzanine's single beds; its parental unit has a panoramic lagoon view and an outdoor bathroom. Both houses have fibre internet and equipped kitchens — though with the chef cooking, they are mostly for morning coffee.

LIFE ON THE ISLAND

Island Life, Looked After

DINING

The Restaurant & Bar Motu Fara stands on stilts over the water, at the edge of the pass. Chef Lucas cooks full board for island guests — bespoke menus and a dish of the day built around the catch — and the bar pours the island's own cocktails, Le Moerani and the Motu Rita among them. Breakfast, lunch and dinner are all part of the stay.

EXPERIENCES

The pass is the playground. Scuba diving and snorkelling in water famous for dolphins, manta rays and sharks; paddle and kayak over the flats; lagoon and deep-sea fishing. Boats run an hour to the Blue Lagoon, an hour and a quarter to the Reef Island. Ashore: Polynesian dance initiation, pāreu making and massage — and tattooing by resident artist Tana Tokorangi, by request.

THE TEAM

Four people run the island. Heiau Makitua is captain and maintenance; Kahaia Makitua and Jenny Tepuai keep the houses and serve at table; Chef Lucas runs the kitchen. It is personal rather than invisible service — the same faces all week, who know how you take your coffee by day two.

THE REGION

Rangiroa — the Endless Lagoon

Rangiroa is one of the largest atolls on earth — a ring of motu around a lagoon so wide it has its own horizon. Motu Fara sits in Avatoru Pass on the atoll's northern rim, one of the two passes into the lagoon; the village of Avatoru, the atoll's chief settlement, is two minutes across the water, and the airstrip a few minutes beyond it.

The passes are why divers come. Avatoru and Tiputa run with the tide, and the drift dives through them are among the most famous in French Polynesia — dolphins ride the incoming current, and manta rays and sharks work the blue. The island's boats also run further: an hour to the Blue Lagoon, a shallow lagoon within the lagoon, and an hour and a quarter to Île aux Récifs, the Reef Island.

GETTING THERE

Tahiti to the Motu

1 HOUR

FLY IN — RANGIROA (RGI)

Every journey starts with the flight from Tahiti — about an hour over the Tuamotu to Rangiroa Airport (RGI). The island team waits at the airport; there is no finding your own way.

INCLUDED

TO AVATORU QUAY

A minibus runs from the airport down the motu road to the quay at Avatoru village. The leg is part of the All Inclusive package — airport to quay to island, and back again at the end of the stay.

2 MINUTES

ACROSS THE PASS

From the quay, the island's boat crosses Avatoru Pass to the motu — two minutes over the water. Crossings during the stay are all included too: village trips, returns after dinner, whenever the boat is needed.

The All Inclusive package covers the whole journey — return airport transfers, full board by the chef, all boat crossings during the stay, one chosen activity each day, and kayak and snorkelling gear.

THE SHORT VERSION

Figures are the WeatherSpark climate normals for Rangiroa Airport, on the same rim of the atoll. The pattern barely moves — highs span just 83–87°F across the year and the lagoon holds 80–84°F; the seasons here turn on rain and cloud, not on temperature.

PRIVATE BUT CONNECTED

73

WHOLE ISLAND · PRIVACY INDEX / 100

Gold fill — whole-island buyout. Dashed outline — villa stay.

	VILLA	WHOLE
WHO ELSE IS THERE	12 / 20	20 / 20

At most one other villa group shares the motu — but the restaurant is open to the public, and day guests come over for events.
Both villas booked together: the island, its restaurant and its team are one group's alone.

HOW YOU ARRIVE	11 / 20	17 / 20

Boat only, two minutes from Avatoru quay — the same shuttle the island runs for its public restaurant and events.
Privatisation closes the island's spaces to the public for the stay; arrivals still route through Rangiroa Airport and the Avatoru quay.

ROOM TO ROAM	9 / 20	14 / 20

Four acres — 16,000 m² — shared between the two villas, the restaurant and the island's working areas.
The whole 16,000 m² motu for one group of up to fourteen — pass beach to lagoon shore.

OUT OF SIGHT, SOUND & TRAFFIC	8 / 20	8 / 20

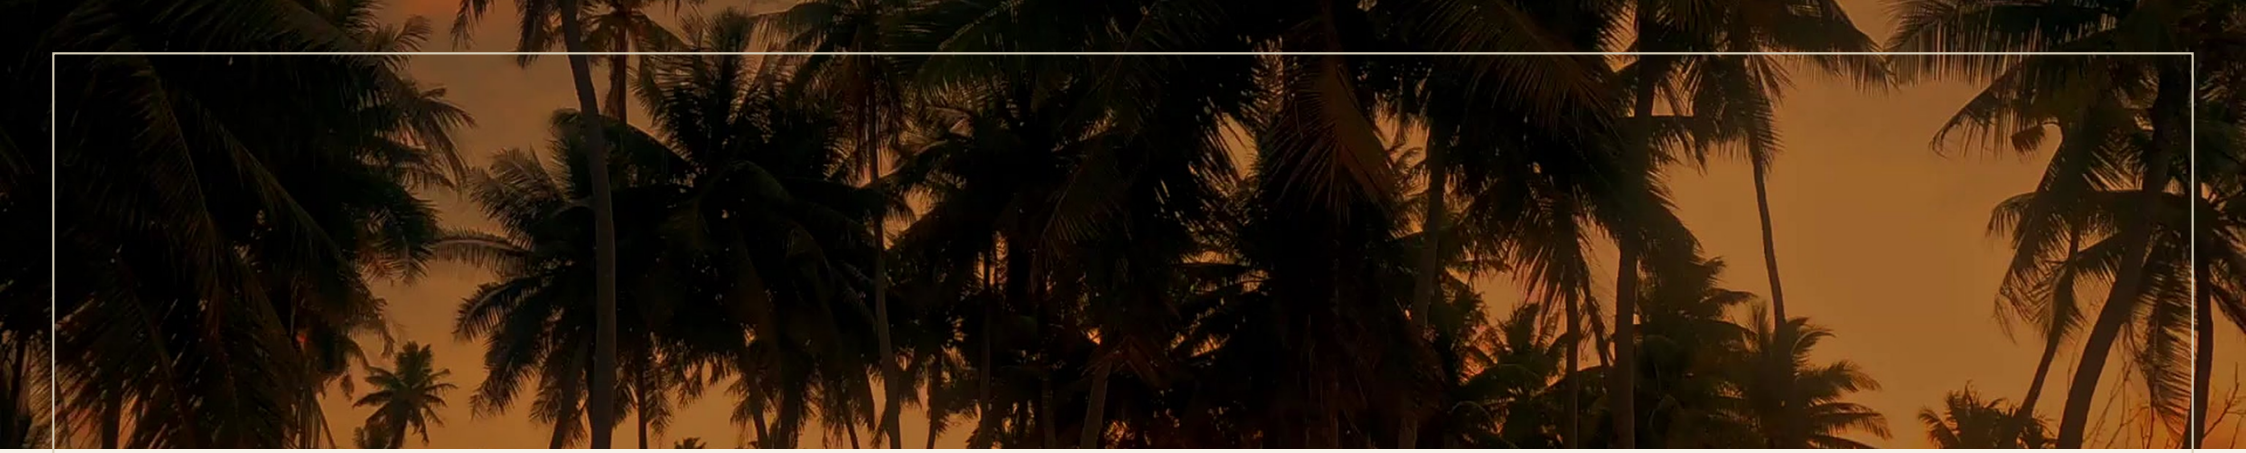

Avatoru village sits two minutes across a working pass; dive and transfer boats cross it all day.
A buyout changes nothing here: the village, the pass traffic and the airstrip are minutes away.

SERVICE & HOSTING	12 / 20	14 / 20

A resident team of four — captain, chef and two housekeeper-waitresses — present by design.
The whole small team, chef included, dedicated to one group; hosted service, never ghost-staffed.
