One Island, One Party

Koh Rang Noi is a private island residence in the Andaman Sea off Phuket, held for one party at a time. Private use is received through Rangnoi Reserve, the house identity established in 2026.

The island is run as a private residence rather than a hotel — two villas, a private theatre, spa and pools, and a household staff dedicated to the party in residence.

Two Villas, Twelve Rooms

The Upper Villa is the main residence, sitting at the island's highest point and opening toward the sea on three sides. Its covered sala, full kitchen and generous living spaces form the social and dining heart of the island.

THE VILLAS

Upper Villa · the main residence	eight rooms
Guest Villa	four rooms
Whole Residence	twelve rooms · both villas

The Guest Villa suits smaller, principal-led parties who want the island with a quieter household rhythm. Received together, the two villas form the Whole Residence — twelve rooms held as one private world, for one party at a time.

LIFE ON THE ISLAND

Life on Koh Rang Noi

DINING

Private use at the first tier is full board: the Island Menu runs from breakfast through lunch and afternoon tea to dinner, with basic non-alcoholic refreshments included — cooked and served by the house for your party alone.

ON THE WATER

Marine and water activities are arranged by agreement, subject to weather and the rhythm of the house — the island's estate conditions name jet skis and e-foils among the equipment. The island's launch runs to the mainland marina.

AT THE HOUSE

A private theatre, a games room and a karaoke lounge, a pickleball court, spa and massage arrangements, and fitness and recovery areas with steam and sauna facilities where available — and pools and grounds throughout.

THE REGION · PHUKET & THE ANDAMAN SEA

The Islands off Phuket

Koh Rang Noi sits in the Andaman Sea off Phuket, Thailand's largest island, on the lived-in coast that faces Phang Nga Bay. The island has operated as a private-island destination since at least 2017.

The neighbours could hardly be more different. Koh Rang Yai, the sister island, receives day visitors; Phuket Town and the marinas of the east coast are minutes away, and Phuket's flight paths cross overhead — yet nothing of that traffic lands here uninvited.

GETTING THERE

Met at the Marina

FLY IN

PHUKET INTERNATIONAL (HKT)

Fly into Phuket International Airport, the island's air gateway. From the aircraft, the house's arrival handling can run as one continuous handover — mainland reception, marina handling and the launch onward.

25 MIN

PRIVATE TRANSFER TO THE MARINA

A private car crosses to Royal Phuket Marina in about 25 minutes. The transfer is among the first tier's inclusions, with luggage coordinated by the house throughout.

10 MIN

BY LAUNCH TO THE ISLAND

The island's private launch crosses from the marina to the island's own pier in about 10 minutes, where the house receives you — a pier reception, with welcome drinks and cold towels.

The island can also be approached by private boat or seaplane — everything is by arrangement, and every arrival is approved in advance.

Gold fill — the island as held: one party at a time.

KOH RANG NOI

WHO ELSE IS THERE — 20 / 20

WHO CAN GET IN — 17 / 20

Boat or seaplane only, to a private pier, and by arrangement — guests, visitors and suppliers are approved in advance, and photography and drone activity are reviewed. The mainland marina is ten minutes away.

SPACE TO DISAPPEAR — 14 / 20

Two villas at separate points of a small island — twelve rooms, pools, grounds and shores to spread across. Generous for a small party; a full house is a sizeable gathering.

OUT OF SIGHT, SOUND & TRAFFIC — 12 / 20

The island is in view of the Phuket mainland and of Koh Rang Yai, a public day-trip island; coastal boat traffic passes and Phuket's flight paths run overhead. The residence sits screened at the high point.
